MONDAY, DECEMBER 20. 1736.

463.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from Holland.

HEN his Majesty came to Utrecht, which was last Thursday se'nnight about half an Hour past Ten at Night, he was attended in his Coach by M. Peterwald, one of his Chamberlains for the Electorate of Hanover, whom he took with him in the Absence of the Marquis de la Forest, the Great Chamberlain of that Electorate, who was so indisposed that he could not have the Honour of accompanying the King as usual. His Majesty alighted at the House of M. Jacob Pouchoud, his Agent in that City, where he supp'd and lay that Night: There he found Letters from the Prince of Orange, with the News of the Princess's Delivery.

The Prince of Orange went on Friday se'nnight in Person to the three Presidents of the Assembly of the States General, of the Council of State, and of the Chamber of Accounts, to acquaint them that her Royal Highness his Consort, was brought to Bed of a Princess who died in the Birth, which he desir'd them to notify to their several Colleges. These three Presidents having performed their Commission, went afterwards separately in the Name of their several Colleges, to congratulate the Prince of Orange on the Birth of that Princess, and also to condole him on her Death. The Corpse of the Infant Princess lay in for three Days in State in one of the Rooms of the House where she was born, to which there was a vast Concourse of Persons of all Ranks to see her, was Yesterday se'nnight removed to Delft, where to be interred in the Tomb of the Princes of Orange. The Funeral Procession began about Seven o'Clock in the Evening with the Light of Flambeaus; but there were only three Coaches which attended it, whereof the two first were drawn by six Horses each, and the third by a Pair of Horses only: In these Coaches sat the Gentlemen and Officers of the Prince of Orange's Household, and the Laqueys walked on both Sides with Flambeaus. The Corpse was interred in the new Church at Delft, and laid in the Vault where the Princes of the House of Orange are buried. Her Royal Highness the Princess continues as well as can be expected.

At Delft, which is about a League from the Hague, following the Course of the Canal, there is the Tomb of William I. Prince of Orange, who was assassinated in that City by Balthazar Gerard of Brancome Comte, Anno 1584, when he was 52 Years old. The Dutch have here erected a stately Mausoleum to the Memory of this Hero, in which they have spared no Cost, to transmit to Posterity their grateful Acknowledgment of the signal Services done by that great Prince, the Restorer of the true Religion in the Low Countries, and the Founder of the Republick; as appears from the following Epitaph inscrib'd on his Monument, which is seldom to be met with in the Relations that have been given of his Country, and may not be improper therefore to be inserted on the present Occasion.

Letters by this Mail from Constantinople say, that the Persian Ambassador having put off his Departure for a few Days, confers often in the mean Time with the Turkish Ministers, and that the Grand Seignior has made him a Present of 45,000 Piastrs (or Crowns) besides a Diamond Sword and other Things to the Value of 30,000 Piastrs, and 700 Persian Slaves of both Sexes; that all the Grandees of the Empire, strive likewise who shall make him the best Presents, and that he has an Allowance of 750 Piastrs every Day for his Table.

'Tis still affirm'd, that in the Treaty between the Turks and Persians, there is an Article in Favour of Russia: Nevertheless the Grand Seignior has ordered a great Sum of Money, no less than what they call 1200 Purfes of 500 Crowns each, to be employed immediately in the Repair of the Lines of Precop, so as to put them in a better State of Defence than they were last Summer. The Imperial Ambassador at the Porte, has frequent Conferences with the Grand Seignior's Ministers, but the Success of his Negotiations is not yet known.

There are Letters from the Turks Army with Advice, that about the End of October last, the Russians attacked and defeated a Body of Janizaries on the Frontiers, supported by 2000 Tartars, of whom they put a great Number to the Sword, and carried off the rest into Slavery.

There are Letters from the Frontiers of Turkey of the 9th of November O. S. by Way of Warlaw, with Advice, that such Resolutions were taken in a late Divan assembled by the Grand Vizier at Sachocza, a Town on the Banks of the Danube, as makes it probable, that the Turks have a Design to push on the War against the Russians with all Vigour possible, and that the Grand Vizier intends to pass the Winter at Babadak.

They write from Vienna, that according to all the Dispositions making there, a Breach with the Turks is near at Hand; which is the more probable, because it appears by their last Letters from Constantinople, that the Porte is less disposed than ever, to take any Step towards an Accommodation with Russia; and that the Grand Vizier in his Answer to the Proposals made by the Imperial Ambassador, acquaints him, that they were of too great Importance to be treated of in Writing, but that if he would come to him to the Army, they might then confer together. Those Letters add, that the Grand Vizier having signified to the Russian Resident, that he might return to his own Country when he pleased, he immediately took the Hint and set out for Petersburg.

The Emperor is very much pleased with the News brought by Express from the Count de Traun at Venice, who informs the Court, that according to the Emperor's Orders, he had made the necessary Representations to the Senate, and that the said Assembly had at length declared, that if his Imperial Majesty was obliged to go to War with the Turks, and should stand in Need of the Concurrence of the Venetian Republick, they would do their utmost to send him sufficient Succours both by Sea and Land. Mean time the Venetians are making a considerable Addition to their Naval Forces, that they may be able to have a Fleet of 24 Men of War and 26 Gallies in the Adriatick Gulph, besides their Coasters, which Fleet is to join that fitting out by the Emperor at Trieste and Fiume: This News has been sent by Express from Vienna to Petersburg, and is the more acceptable to the Imperial Court, because they were inform'd last Month, that since the Conclusion of a Peace between the Turks and Persians, several Members of the Senate of Venice had alter'd their Opinion as to the Expediency of the Republick's joining in a War against the Porte, because the said Peace leaves the Grand Seignior in a Condition to employ all his Forces against the Christian Powers: And 'twas for this Reason, that the Emperor gave it in Charge to the Count de Traun, to stop at Venice in his Way to his Government of the Milanese, in order to engage the Senate to act in perfect Concurrence with his Imperial Majesty, in Case that their common Safety makes a War with the Porte necessary.

The Emperor has signified to the Protestant States of the Empire, that as the Peace with France won'd very soon be proclaim'd, he wou'd then declare his Intentions to the Dyet of Ratisbon, not only as to the Methods for redressing the religious Grievances in Germany, but as to the Revocation of the 4th Article of the Treaty of Ryswick.

The Empress having caused several Suits of Apparel to be richly embroider'd with Gold and Silver as a Present for the Queen of Portugal, has sent the same to Holland, there to be put on board for Lisbon.

'Tis said, that the Battle of wild Beasts which is intended at Vienna after the Proclamation of the Peace, will be repeated when the Dutchess of Lorraine is delivered of a Prince or Princess. The Amphitheatre erected for this Show is almost entirely finished, and will be just like those of the Antients, though not so large as Vespasians at Rome.

'Tis again reported, that the Emperor, in Regard to the King of Sweden, will engage the States of the Empire to consent, that the Landgraviate of Hesse Cassel may be erected into an Electorate; on which Condition, we are assured, that his Swedish Majesty is to keep in Pay 6000 Men of regular Troops for the Service of the Emperor and Empire, as the Hanover Family did formerly when that Dutchy was erected into an Electorate during the Reign of the Emperor Leopold.

They write from Berlin, that the Margravine of Brandenburg Schwedt, one of the King of Prussia's Daughters, is brought to Bed of a Princess, and that the Baron de Borek, his Majesty's Minister to this Court, set out last Tuesday se'nnight for London.

L O N D O N.

On Friday last when the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen waited on his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, to present his Royal Highness with the Freedom of the City; Mr. Baron Thomson, Recorder of the City, addressed his Royal Highness in the following Speech.

May it please your Royal Highness.

THE Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen of the City of London, most humbly beseech your Royal Highness, that you would be pleased to vouchsafe your gracious Acceptance of the Freedom of the City.

Your Royal Highness's condescending to this humble Request, will yield Honour to that whole Body, and to every Member of it.

And they beg Leave to take this Opportunity of assuring your Royal Highness of their dutiful and affectionate Regard, and of their hearty Wishes for your Royal Highness's Health, Welfare, and Prosperity.

To which his Royal Highness was pleased to make this most gracious Answer.

My Lord and Gentlemen,

THO' no Ties were wanting to make you dearer to me, yet I receive this as a new Mark of your Duty and Loyalty to the King, and of your Affection to me. I am very thankful for your good Opinion, and shall try in all Times to deserve it, by my hearty Wishes for the Welfare of your Trade, and by my constant Zeal for the Liberty of my Country.

To his ROYAL HIGHNESS the PRINCE of WALES, on his Royal Highness's being presented with, and accepting the Freedom of the City of London.

WHILE every Honour 's to your HIGHNESS due, Much London owes, but more receives from You: Her Freedom grateful at Your Feet, she lays, Secur'd were Her's all by the BRUNSWICK Race, Like the whole Nation, now dispos'd to own, She without Them had been possess'd of none: Rightly, in this, all think, she has behav'd, Whom your Great Sire protect, and Grandfire sav'd.

Advertisement concerning this Book.

This Masterpiece of religious Policy was published, many Years since, in Latin, French, and Dutch: Mr. John Schipper, a Bookseller at Amsterdam, bought one of them at Antwerp, among other Books, and afterwards reprinted it. The Jesuits, being informed that he had purchased this Book, demanded it back from him; but he had then sent it to Holland. One of the Society, who lived at Amsterdam, hearing he said, sent after, to a Catholic Bookseller, by Name Van Eyke, that Schipper was printing a Book which concerned the Jesuits, replied, that if it was only The Rules of the Society, he should not be under any Concern; but desired he would inform him self what it was. Being told by the Bookseller, that it was The Secret Instructions of the Society, the good Father, though up his Shoulders, and knitting his Brow, said, that he saw no other Remedy but denying that this Piece came from the Society. The Reverend Fathers however thought it more advisable to purchase the whole Edition, which they did after did, some few Copies excepted; from one of these it was afterwards reprinted, with this Account prefixed, which is there said to be taken from two Roman Catholics, Men of Credit.
